MESSAGE

I am happy to know that the Ministry of Rural Development, under the aegis of Lab-to Land initiative, has started a dedicated volunteers group called Bharat Nirman Volunteers.

The Bharat Nirman Volunteers are harbingers of change in rural areas of India. I am confident that this initiative will help disseminate information about programmes and capacity building in rural India. They will also facilitate social audit of government programmes and expedite redressal of public grievances. I am sanguine that the establishment of this cadre of village based volunteers will enable better access to public services and improvement in outreach of government programmes, besides ensuring greater transparency and accountability in implementation of government programmes.

I extend my warm greetings and good wishes to the Bharat Nirman Volunteers and the Ministry for a successful mission in bringing prosperity in rural areas.
